COINS FROM ASSOS

Edited by H. W. BELL

INTRODUCTION

The coins from Assos, which I have been asked to edit, were not all found in the excavations. Some of them were purchased from natives of the surrounding district; and, except in the few cases in which certain coins have been noted by the excavators as coming from a particular spot, it is impossible to distinguish between the coins which were purchased and those which were discovered during the excavations. These indications have been supplied in footnotes in the Catalogue.

In the general introduction to the publication of the Assos Excavations, it is said that 408 coins became the property of the excavators under the then existing Ottoman Law concerning antiquities. Of these, 270 have been turned over to me for publication. The whereabouts of the others does not seem to be known.

There were 4 coins, among these 270, which proved to be quite illegible; one was a modern forgery; the remaining 265 are now published. Some of them, chiefly Assos types of the Imperial period, are new.

In describing the coins, the forms used in the volumes of the various British Museum Catalogues have, in general, been followed. The position of inscriptions has in every case been noted, unless they read 'from L. upwards' i.e. in the usual modern fashion.

The numbers in the Indices (as well as on the Plates, and in the footnotes) refer to the numbers of the coins in their order in the Catalogue; and the practice has been adopted of printing references to obverses in heavy type.

References are given in the foot-notes in the Catalogue to the following books:

When, in the case of Greek coins, no references are given in the footnotes, exactly similar coins will be found published in the volumes of the British Museum Catalogues (The 3 coins of Alexander III may readily be traced in the Hunter Catalogue or in Müller's indispensable work). Other coins are described summarily.

I wish to express my thanks to Mr. Howland Wood, of the American Numismatic Society, in New York, for help with two coins, as well as for undertaking the casting of the coins to be illustrated. Mr. G. F. Hill, of the British Museum, has, with his usual kindness, helped me with the inscription of No 151.

H. W. BELL.
